

NOTE
Hey people, please take a note that there are books which can be tagged under different buckets. For example, "12 Rules for Life" by Jordan Peterson can be seen as self-help, philosophy, or even psychology depending on how you read it. So just ignore the tagging and have fun reading them. I've tried to keep the list as balanced as possible from very beginner friendly books to ones that go deeper into complex ideas.
CATEGORY	BOOK TITLE	AUTHOR	REMARKS
Self-help	Atomic Habits	James Clear	Perfect for anyone trying to build good habits and break bad ones.
	Deep Work	Cal Newport	Ideal for students who want to focus deeply and work without distractions.
	Make Time	Jake Knapp & John Zeratsky	For those who feel overwhelmed and want to reclaim control of their time.
	The Subtle Art of Not Giving a F*ck	Mark Manson	For students struggling with societal pressure and self-worth.
	The 5 AM Club	Robin Sharma	Helps build morning routines to gain control over your day.
	12 Rules for Life	Jordan B. Peterson	For young adults seeking structure and philosophical life guidance.
	Everything is F*cked	Mark Manson	Helps understand emotional chaos in a hyper-connected world.
	The 12 Week Year	Brian Moran	Best for those who want to achieve more in less time.
	Can't Hurt Me	David Goggins	A raw, motivational push to crush your limits.
Business	Essentialism	Greg McKeown	Learn how to do less but better, perfect for overwhelmed students.
	The Personal MBA	Josh Kaufman	Great for future entrepreneurs and marketers.
	The Lean Startup	Eric Ries	For tech-savvy students who want to build businesses the smart way.
	Think and Grow Rich	Napoleon Hill	Mindset-based success classic, must-read for ambitious individuals.
	The Millionaire Fastlane	MJ DeMarco	For rebels who want to escape the 9-5 and think big.
	Rich Dad Poor Dad	Robert Kiyosaki	Teaches money lessons you won't learn in school.
	Tools of Titans	Tim Ferriss	Productivity and success hacks from top performers.
	The Almanack of Naval Ravikant	Eric Jorgenson	Wisdom on wealth, happiness, and leverage in the modern world.
	4-Hour Work Week	Tim Ferriss	Learn how to escape the rat race and live life on your terms.
Psychology & Philosophy	The Innovator's Dilemma	Clayton Christensen	Explains how even great companies fail - crucial for innovators.
	Thinking, Fast and Slow	Daniel Kahneman	A masterclass on how we think and make decisions.
	The Paradox of Choice	Barry Schwartz	For overthinkers - helps reduce decision anxiety.
	Influence: The Psychology of Persuasion	Robert Cialdini	Understand how people say 'yes' - crucial for marketers.
	The Happiness Equation	Neil Pasricha	Teaches how to be happy first, then succeed.
	Dopamine Nation	Anna Lembke	Explores addiction in a dopamine-flooded society.
	The Winner Effect	Ian H. Robertson	For understanding how power and success shape our brains.
	Misbehaving	Richard H. Thaler	Behavioral economics explained with real-world insights.
	Man's Search for Meaning	Viktor E. Frankl	A must-read on purpose, meaning, and resilience.
Storytelling & Writing	Meditations	Marcus Aurelius	Timeless stoic wisdom for modern minds.
	Storyworthy	Matthew Dicks	Teaches how to craft unforgettable personal stories.
	Made to Stick	Chip Heath & Dan Heath	For marketers and communicators - make ideas stick.
	Steal Like an Artist	Austin Kleon	For creatives who need a fresh mindset boost.
AI & Tech	The Art and Business of Writing	Chris Jones	Balance creativity with making a living through writing.
	Life 3.0	Max Tegmark	A powerful look at AI's future and its impact on humanity.
	You Look Like a Thing and I Love You	Janelle Shane	Funny and accessible intro to how AI works.
	Architects of Intelligence	Martin Ford	Interviews with the world's top minds on AI's direction.
	The Master Switch	Tim Wu	Explores how tech empires rise and fall.
Fiction	Hooked	Nir Eyal	For those interested in building addictive, successful products.
	Zero to One	Peter Thiel	Startups, innovation, and building from scratch.
	The Alchemist	Paulo Coelho	Fictional yet deep - about following your dreams.
	The Midnight Library	Matt Haig	Explores parallel lives and the impact of choices.
	Flowers for Algernon	Daniel Keyes	Touching tale of intelligence, identity, and emotion.
	We Are the Ants	Shaun David Hutchinson	Dark yet inspiring - asks if life is worth saving.
	Anxious People	Fredrik Backman	Funny, emotional story that celebrates human flaws.
	The Book Thief	Markus Zusak	For anyone who loves storytelling, history, and deep emotional narratives